Prepetition Sale

On May 11, 2020, IntegraMed America, Inc. sold certain of its information technology assets to a new entity ("Newco Fertility") affiliated with Amulet Capital Partners, L.P. for a purchase price of $7 million and the assumption of certain liabilities. Following the closing of this transaction, the Debtors understand that Newco Fertility purchased all of the debt outstanding under the Debtors' Amended and Restated Credit Agreement, dated as of May 9, 2018 (as amended, the "Senior Credit Agreement"). As a result, as of the date hereof, Newco Fertility is the Debtors' senior lender and owner of the Debtors' previously-owned information technology assets. It is the Debtors' understanding that Newco Fertility will be in contact with the Chapter 7 trustee and that IntegraMed America's network of clinics will continue to have access to the information technology assets and related services following the date hereof.

Property Requiring Immediate Attention

In the field of human infertility, there is the capability to cryopreserve ("freeze") human eggs, embryos and sperm as part of standard IVF treatment for patients. Cryopreservation is a laboratory process that allows for the preservation and storage of biological tissues, in a frozen state, over extended periods of time. Cryopreserved biological tissues are stored in specialized cryopreservation tanks (in liquid nitrogen) at the IVF clinics. As these cryopreserved biological materials belong to patients and represent critical human tissue for family building, the ongoing monitoring and management of cryopreservation tanks is imperative.

Given the Chapter 7 filing, several IntegraMed network managed IVF clinics will or may cease ongoing operations, and the subsequent custodianship and management of cryopreservation tissue at each clinic, on behalf of the patient and effective patient care, is a high priority. More specifically, outreach to patients with cryopreserved tissue, the transfer of their tissue to a third party long term storage facility, and transition period financial support for patient care wind down and cryopreservation management is warranted in order to avoid abandonment of said cryopreserved tissue.

Further, ensuring the completion of patient care as part of a clinic wind down process is also a high priority.

The following IntegraMed network managed IVF clinics are of particular focus for an interim cryopreservation management process given IntegraMed's close-in management of these locations:

- SIRM New York
